ANTRIM

Meeting to discuss Gregg Lake quality

A public meeting to develop a ten-year plan for achieving water quality goals for Gregg Lake is set for Dec. 3 at 6:30 p.m. in Antrim's Little Town Hall.

At the meeting, the Gregg Lake Watershed Management

Plan Committee will solicit public input on options for meeting the goals, which were set in July. So far, the committee has completed a full water quality analysis of the lake, identified current and future pollution sources, estimated the extent of pollution reduction needed to reach the set goals, and set a water quality goal for phosphorus.
